

118. Documentation for Jeremiah Yeakel

(09 April 1736 to 10 February 1818)

father of Anna Yeakel

(20 October 1780 to 17 July 1840)

Jeremiah Yeakel was born 09 April 1736 in Macungie, Bucks County, Pennsylvania.(1) He died 10 February 1818 in Lehigh County, Pennsylvania.(2) The parents of Jeremiah Yeakel were Hans Heinrich Jäckel and his wife, Susanna (Heydrick) Jäckel.(3)

The story of the Yeakel family is told in The Genealogical Record of the Schwenkfelder Families: Seekers of Religious Liberty Who Fled from Silesia to Saxony and thence to Pennsylvania in the Years 1731 to 1737.(4) The book's author, Samuel Kriebel Brecht, employed a numbering system in his book to more easily identify the descendants of one of the emigrants. The Schwenkfelder emigrants, those who arrived in Pennsylvania in the years 1731 to 1737, are designed with the letter "E".(5) Hans Heinrich Jäckel [E 45] was born 19 February 1708, was baptized 20 February 1708, and died 21 December 1781.(6) His wife, Susanna Heydrick [E 126], was born 19 September 1710 and died 23 September 1793.(7)

Hans Heinrich Jäckel [E 45], his wife Susanna (Heydrick) Jäckel [E 126], and his father, David Jäckel [E 38], landed at the port of Philadelphia in 1734, and thus are included in The Genealogical Record of the Schwenkfelder Families.(8) The wife of David Jäckel died before the family left Europe for America.(9) The Jäckels were included in the third and main migration. "The third and main migration began Tuesday, April 20, 1734, when the first family left Berthelsdorf. The emigrants embarked on the Elbe for Altona, Denmark, on April 28, and on May 20 reached their destination. On June 21 they embarked on the ship St. Andrew, and on July 29, Plymouth was reached. Land of the new world was first seen by them on September 17, and on September 22 actual landing took place."(10)

"Hans Heinrich (John) Yeakel (Jäckel) [E 45, F 38, F 38-5, wife E 126] acquired by warrant and survey of the year 1740, 100 acres in present Upper Macungie Twp., Lehigh Co. [Plate B IV], which he conveyed to John Fogel in 1769, to whom patent was issued in 1782. In 1743 he purchased of Philip Labar, 200 acres in present Marlborough Twp., Montg. Co. [Plate D II, owned in part in 1920 by Milton Hillegass], to which he later added 34 acres, of which he sold part to Philip Reed in 1759, and the remainder to George Roth in 1770. He for a time held part of the Christopher Newman tract [Plate D III]. He bought in 1755, 89 ½ acres in Upper Hanover Twp., near his 200-acre tract, which he sold in 1761 to Leonard Thomas. On Dec. 23, 1761, he as "John Yeakle of Marlborough," bought the Hamilton tract of 500 acres, partly in Upper Hanover Twp., Montg. Co., and partly in Upper Milford, Lehigh Co. [Plate C III], which he conveyed in four parts of equal area to his four sons, Balthasar [E 127], Jeremiah, George and Melchior. A survey of Dec., 1773, shows that he also bought 198 acres of Dietrich Welker in Lower Milford Twp., Bucks Co. Place of burial of Hans Heinrich, Yeakel Private Burying Ground, Hosensack; his wife, Hosensack."(11)

The numbering system used in the Schwenkfelder Families allows one to easily follow the descendants of the earliest ancestor. David Jäckel is number [38] and all of his descendants listed in the Schwenkfelder Families are numbered beginning with [38]. Hans Heinrich Jäckel is number [38-5] and Jeremiah Yeakel is [38-17].(12)

"The two most highly prized relics reposing in the Schwenkfelder Historical Library at Pennsburg (PA) are the original Ship List of the St. Andrew and the German Bible used by Caspar Schwenckfeld which contains his autograph and also marginal notes in his own handwriting."(13) See APPENDIX A for a brief discussion of Schwenkfelder History as described on the website of the Palm Schwenkfelder Church.

APPENDIX A

SCHWENKFELDER HISTORY

[The following passages are quoted from the website of the Palm Schwenckfelder Church. Physical address: 833 Gravel Pike, Palm, Pennsylvania 18070]

Caspar Schwenckfeld lived from 1489 to 1561. He was born into a family of nobility in Silesia (now part of Poland), was raised Roman Catholic, and was educated to be a diplomat in the European courts. He was a court advisor in Silesia in 1517 when Martin Luther posted his Ninety-Five Theses in Wittenberg, triggering the Protestant Reformation. Schwenckfeld was immediately attracted to the Reformation movement. He believed that the old world was passing away and a new world was appearing on the scene. He soon abandoned his affairs of state, and gave his full attention to studying the Scriptures and early church writings.

Schwenckfeld's followers did not attend the established, dogmatic churches of the day. Instead, they conducted Christian worship in their homes, guided by Schwenckfeld's writings. (Most people did not own Bibles at that time.) Schwenckfeld's followers also participated in the Stillstand. The established churches deemed them un-churched heretical people and had fines and imprisonment imposed on them. Persecution throughout the 17th century reduced their numbers until, in 1719, the Austrian Emperor established a Jesuit mission to bring them back into the Catholic Church. Representatives of the Schwenckfelders traveled to Vienna to plead for religious tolerance but their pleas were futile. By 1726, only one alternative remained... to leave everything and escape.

In 1726, the most ardent of Schwenckfeld's followers left their homes and began a migration to America. The largest group, numbering 171, landed in Philadelphia on September 22, 1734, on the sailing ship "St. Andrew." On September 24, they held a service of thanksgiving to God for their deliverance from persecution and safe arrival in the New World. They also shared a simple meal together. There is no documentation of what was served at the meal but Schwenckfelder tradition tells us that it included bread, butter and apple butter. Schwenckfelders have held a Day of Remembrance service every year since then, making this the oldest continuous thanksgiving observance in the country.

Early Schwenckfelders held worship services and religious instruction in their homes for almost 50 years after their arrival in Pennsylvania. Initially, they had no fixed places or times of worship but, in 1762, they instituted a system of religious meetings. The meetings were held in private homes selected for that purpose on a predetermined schedule of rotation. This simple structure for worship met their needs for another 20 years until 1782, when they formed the "Society of Schwenckfelders." This organization was incorporated in 1909 as "The Schwenckfelder Church." The Schwenckfelder Church grew to include six congregations at its peak, with four remaining today. All of them were within a 50-mile radius of Philadelphia. Today's congregations are located in Palm, Worcester, East Norriton, and Philadelphia.

Early Schwenckfelders established homesteads from Chestnut Hill, near Philadelphia, to what are now Berks and Lehigh Counties. However, most of them settled in Central and Upper Montgomery County. Schwenckfelders referred to the area covering Upper Montgomery, Berks and Lehigh Counties as the "Upper District."

Schwenckfelders have historically been interested in education. They built the first log school in the Upper District near Hereford in 1765 and, soon thereafter, rented a structure for a school in the Hosensack area. Other school sessions in this district were held in private homes. In 1790, a combination school and meeting house was erected at Hosensack to replace the earlier facility. The first worship service was held in this building in August, 1790. This log school and meeting house was replaced by one of stone in 1838. The building was remodeled in 1893, and it remains to this day.

A second Schwenkfelder meeting house was built in Washington Township, Berks County, in 1791. The first services to be held in this meeting house were the Day of Remembrance services of September 24, 1791. Public school sessions were conducted by the Schwenkfelders in this building until 1824, when it was replaced by a more modern structure. This building was removed in 1911, and a granite monument was placed on the site.

The historic Hosensack Schwenkfelder meetinghouse and cemetery are located adjacent to the intersection of Hosensack and Yeakel roads, along the Hosensack Creek, in Upper Hanover Township, Montgomery County, PA. This site is in the north-east corner of the county, just west of the border with Lehigh County.

A monument in the cemetery honors "the memory of Schwenkfelder immigrants from Silesia whose remains repose on these and nearby sacred grounds." The immigrants arrived in Pennsylvania in 1731 and 1737.

one day. From Berthelsdorf and Herrnhut, through Pirna, Dresden, Wittenberg, Magdeburg, Hamburg, Altona, Amsterdam, Haarlem, Rotterdam, Plymouth, to Philadelphia.

Finis cum Deo!

[For complete accounts, vid. Pa. Mag., Vol. X, p. 179—Reise Beschreibung.]

THIRD MIGRATION.

The third and main migration began Tuesday, April 20, 1734, when the first family left Berthelsdorf. The emigrants embarked on the Elbe for Altona, Denmark, on April 28, and on May 20 reached their destination. On June 21 they embarked on the ship St. Andrew, and on July 29, Plymouth was reached. Land of the new world was first seen by them on September 17, and on September 22 actual landing took place.

Palatines imported in the Ship, Saint Andrew, John Stedman, Master, from Rotterdam, but last from Plymouth as per Clearance thence. Qualified, Sept. 12, 1734 [Old style].

Data of Michael Hillegass Family obtained from letters in H. K. Gerhard Collection [S. H. L.], written by Jacob Hillegass, Nov. 4, 1839, to Jacob Kriebel.

In addition to the above the following information is given:

In 1833, Samuel was married several years; Jonathan was married 6 wks.; Anna Margaret had 3 children; Catharine had 1 child.

In 1837, Samuel bought 140 acres of land near Fort Wayne, Ind. Catharine lived 6 miles from home.

In 1822, John was studying for the ministry with Rev. Weiss, and 1824 was his last year.

Harbaugh Ref. Church Fathers, Vol. III, p 342:—"Rev. John Hillegass, b Nov. 12, 1800; d June 28, 1828; was ordained May 23, 1826. Had charge of six congregations, around Carrolton, formerly Centreville, Ohio."

Another source states that Michael Hillegass and Ann Yeakel had thirteen children, eight attaining maturity. This source also states that Daniel Hillegass lived in Indian Territory and was married to an Indian Squaw. The youngest son went either to India, Australia, or Germany. [Information by R. M. Rine, General merchant, Centerville, Ohio, in 1910.]
